ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Advertisement information appropriated beforehand is inserted into contents such as a game downloaded by a user at the point that the user activates the 5   contents, based on advertisement-insertable information within the game data or the like, and subsequently advertisement information is displayed at corresponding areas while the contents are running, thereby realizing an advertisement system capable of dealing with network infrastructures.